Dear Mr Luscombe

RE: Woolworths' ownership of poker machines

I am very concerned that Woolworths is Australia's largest poker machine operator, with over 11,000 machines.

There are approximately 250,000 Australians addicted to poker machines. On average, each of these people affects the lives of seven others.

It is not right that Woolworths is profiting from the victims of gambling addiction. I believe that if Woolworths truly supports and values Australian communities, your company will dispose of all its interests in poker machines and poker machine revenue.

Yours sincerely
